Alan Russell may be the most underrated, least well-known best-selling thriller writer around. I met Alan at Bouchercon in Pasadena in 1992, and he's been turning out books ever since. I hadn't read one of his for a long time until picking up BURNING MAN, recently released by Thomas & Mercer.

Burning Man (Gideon and Sirius, #1) by Alan Russell

Burning Man is simply not quite as good. Russell has a great sense of humor and obviously the protagonist is personal. He writes in the style of film noir detective novels and the pace is quick. But, parts of this drag and do not connect well.

Both Sirius and Gideon are badly burned, but both go on to become the protagonists of what will -- I hope -- become a new police procedural series for Alan Russell. Burning Man is one of those "just five minutes more" books you can't find a place to stop listening.

Burning Man Quotes by Alan Russell - Goodreads

2018 seems to be my year of reading mysteries that have detectives with canine partners. Most of these books have been excellent reads, and Burning Man continues the trend. Reminiscent of Michael Connelly, Alan Russell's first Gideon and Sirius mystery makes the setting one of the strongest characters in the book.

Alan Russell (Author of Guardians of the Night)

2nd by Alan Russell, but NOT the last I'll read! Didn't go in any sort of order, first listened to Guardians of the Night, and just finished Burning Man... can't wait to get all in the series. I love Russell's writing and wit; and couldn't have gotten a better narrator the Jeff Cummings to bring the story and that quit wit to the listener.
