Fifty years
after the Second
Vatican Council,
architectural historian Robert Proctor examines

transformations
in British Roman Catholic church
architecture
that took place
in the two decades
surrounding this
crucial event.
Inspired by new
thinking in theology and
changing

practices of
worship, and by
a growing
acceptance of modern art and
architecture,
architects
designed radical
new forms of
church building
in a campaign of
new buildings
for new urban contexts. A

focussed study
of mid-twentieth century church
architecture,
Building the Modern Church
considers how architects and
clergy
constructed the image and
reality of the Church as an institution

through its buildings. The author examines
changing
conceptions of
tradition and
modernity, and
the development
of a modern
church
architecture
that drew from
the ideas of the movement. The role of Catholic

clergy as patrons of modern architecture and
art and the
changing
attitudes of the Church and its architects to
modernity are
examined,
explaining how

different
strands of post-
war architecture
were adopted in
the field of
ecclesiastical
building's social role in defining communities
through rituals
and symbols is

also considered,
together with
the

relationships
between churches
and modernist
urban planning
in new towns and

studies analysed
in detail
include
significant buildings and

architects that have remained
little known until now. Based on meticulous
historical research in
primary sources,
theoretically
informed, fully referenced, and
thoroughly
illustrated,
this book will

be of interest
to anyone
concerned with
the church

of this period.
